Dreamcatcher Interior Design is a professional design agency that specialises in residential and commercial renovation services. The team of highly creative and innovative designers possess diverse knowledge to blend creativity with upcoming and current design trends to create luxurious and innovative homes. As firm believers that every single project has its specific needs and budget, the company relies on professional knowledge and personal experiences to help homeowners plan and realise their dream spaces.

< RESOURCE ROOM

A teacher by profession, the homeowner required plenty of storage solutions for her textbooks, toys and other classroom knick-knacks. As such, one of the spare bedrooms was converted into a resource room with plenty of cabinets. Meanwhile, a balloon-designed ceiling light serves as a unique fixture in the space, which further enhances the youthful atmosphere of the room.

▼ MASTER BATHROOM

In the master bath, all original wall and floor tiles were hacked away and overlaid with a new set of tiles. The most eye-catching change was the wall in the shower area, which now features a textured three-dimensional tiled design. Meanwhile, a pair of floating ledges take up residence at the corner of the room.

> MASTER BEDROOM

For her bedroom, the homeowner required a study table that would better facilitate her paperwork. To cater to this, the space next to the bed was converted into a workstation that encompasses display cases for decorative figurines, storage for textbooks and a cosy spot to work.

< LIVING

To provide the homeowner with a spacious living space, Shia Lin Zhi Sheng of Dreamcatcher Interior Design kept built-in fixtures to a minimum. For example, the television wall features only a low-profile streamlined console unit that doesn't clutter up the room's overall look. By cladding the opposing wall in a different paint shade, the room is prevented from feeling too stark.

< KITCHEN

The homeowner's newly-designed kitchen now features swathes of dark wood-laminated cabinets that sit underneath a sturdy white quartz countertop. Meanwhile, the absence of a cooker hood keeps the cooking zone neat and elegant. However, tying the upper and lower cabinetry together is patterned tiled backsplash that imbues some character and visual interest into the space.
